

Where are the waiting times for peritonectomy surgery across Australia reported on the National Health Performance Authority website

The NHPA's latest report on waiting times for cancer surgery do not include those for Peritonectomy surgery, which are horrific: www.livesatrisk.com.au.

The NHPA should report on those times across Australia as the community needs to know this vital information so it can be brought to the attention of federal and state governments.

As everyone knows the best outcomes for cancer are obtained by early treatment. Currently only 3 hospitals in Australia offer this surgery; St George Public Hospital in Sydney, PAH in Brisbane and one hospital in Victoria so the analysis won't take a long time.
